KEY INVESTOR INFORMATION- COMPLEX FINANCIAL PRODUCTS CFDS – CONTRACTS FOR DIFFERENCE ON COMMODITIES

ALERT: Specific Investor Risk Warning Notice

You are about to purchase a product that is not simple and may be difficult to understand. It's, however, better as a precautionary measure to follow the information mentioned in this document.

Purpose of this Document

This document provides you with key information about this investment product. It is not marketing material. The information is required by law to help you understand the nature, costs, risks, and rewards of this product and to help you compare it with other products.

Counterparty:

Indication Investments Ltd is authorized and regulated by the Cyprus Securities and Exchange Commission (license number 164/12) as a Cyprus Investment Firm to offer the services and activities enlisted herein in this document, under the Provision of Investment Services, the Exercise of Investment Activities, the Operation of Regulated Markets and Other Related Makers Law 144(I)/2007.

Product description

CFDs, allow investors to speculate on the short-term movements in the price of financial instruments. CFDs are complex financial products, traded on an 'over-the-counter ('OTC') basis and not through a regulated market. CFDs, which are agreements to exchange the difference in value of a particular underlying instrument between the time at which the agreement is entered into and the time at which it is closed, allowing the investors to replicate the economic effect of trading in particular currencies or other asset classes without requiring actual ownership.

When trading CFDs there is no physical exchange of assets; therefore, financial settlement results from the difference at the time the position is closed and the price of the underlying asset at the time the position is opened. The underlying assets of the CFDs fall under the following categories (i) forex and crypto-currencies, (ii) equities, (iii) indices, (iv) metals and (v) commodities.

Objectives:

This is a leveraged Product which is traded on an OTC (over-the-counter) market. The return is linear and based on price fluctuation of the underlying asset. The expected returns depend on the market direction and the position taken by the investor. Buying or selling this Product means you take a long and respectively short position. The Product is offered with multiplier, which allows investors to control positions of larger value than the capital invested, which may lead to significant profit or loss but never exceeding the invested amount. This Product does not require initial payments.

Intended Retail Investor

A CFD product is intended to retail investors who are prepared to take a higher level of risk of loss for a higher potential return on the capital invested in the Product. The Product is targeted to retail investors having speculation or hedging objectives and who have some or little experience in margin trading of derivatives. CFDs are also intended for investors with the ability to bear losses of their investment, and intend to use the products for short-term speculative trading.

What are the Risks?

If you are considering trading CFDs, make sure you understand these risks.

Risk indicator

Always keep in mind that this complex financial product:

- May lead to the sudden total loss of capital invested;
- May provide zero or unfavourable returns;
- Is subject to the credit risk of the issuer;
- Implies the incurring of costs, fees or charges;
- The position may be closed by the Counterparty in certain situations.

The risk indicator given here is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets. We have classified this product as 7 out of 7, which is the highest risk class. At this rate, the potential losses from future performance are at a very high level.

The risks and complexity of CFDs mean that they are unlikely to meet the investment needs and objectives of many retail investors. If you trade CFDs, be aware that you are risking potentially high losses of your capital. Trade only with money you can afford to lose, and only after you have fully acknowledged and accepted the risks involved.

However, the total loss you can incur will never exceed the invested amount. The Company provides a negative balance protection, which is a Cysec regulatory requirement.

The scenario presented here is an estimate of future performance based on evidence from the past on how the value of this investment varies, and are not an exact indicator. It is just for the illustration purpose and figures indicated herein varies from product to product. What you get will also vary depending on how the market performs and how long you hold the CFD.

These performance scenarios assume that you only have one position open, and do not take into account the negative or positive cumulative balance you may have if you have multiple open positions. Also, this scenario does not take into consideration any costs and commissions that arise from the trading operation. You can compare them with the scenarios of other products.

The following assumptions have been used to create the scenarios in Table 1:

Long CFD position on Brent Crude Oil (held intraday)

Opening Price: P	50.00
Investment amount: IN	1.000
Multiplier: M	10
Total Exposure: IN*M	10.000

Table 1

Long Performance Scenario	Closing price	Price change	Profit/loss	Return on Investment
Favourable	51.00	2.00%	€200	20%
Moderate	50.50	1.00%	€100	10%
Unfavourable	49.00	-2.00%	(€200)	-20%
Stress	47.50	-5.00%	(€500)	-50%
Extreme	45.00	-10.00%	(€1000)	-100%

This table illustrates an example of potential profit and loss outcome from investing 1.000 with a multiplier of 10.

Market developments in the future cannot be accurately predicted. The scenarios shown are only an indication of some of the possible outcomes. Actual returns could be lower.

What are the costs?

Depending on the product you trade, you may incur some or all of the following costs: The following table shows the different types of cost categories and their meaning:

One-off entry costs	Commission charge	We charge you a small % fee each time you open a CFD
Ongoing costs	Daily swap cost	A fee is charged to your account for each night that your position is held. This means the longer you hold a position more it costs.
Other costs	Rollover costs	We charge you to roll over a futures contract into the next month, or quarter, equal to the spread to open and close a trade. Please refer to the example available in the Specifics of Trading Operations Execution document for more information.
	Margin Adjustment	Margin Adjustment will be charged only when the Client Trading Account currency is different than the quoted currency of the underlying asset. Margin Adjustment is up to a maximum of 0.3% and it will be applied to the opening and closing of the trade. The fee will be realised and reflected once the Position is closed. Please refer to the example available in the Specifics of Trading Operations Execution document for more information.

Detailed information on each instrument costs and specifications can be found here.

How long should I hold it and can I take money out early?

You can open and close a CFD at any time during market hours. This product has no fixed term, no recommended holding period, no cancellation period and therefore no cancellation fees.
